The core principles of the ADR program are that it is voluntary, neutral, confidential, and enforceable. This process fosters teamwork and improves workplace relationships and communication. Managers must participate in ADR/mediation in good faith but are under no obligation to settle.

3. RESPONSIBILITIES. See Enclosure 2

4. PROCEDURES. See Enclosure 3

5. REPORTING REQUIREMENTS. None.

PROCEDURES

1. Issues Covered

a. The ADR process can be used to resolve many matters of concern or dissatisfaction relating to employment as well as disputes between agencies or between DMA and non-federal entities.

b. Although ADR is beneficial in most instances, there are some situations where ADR is not appropriate. Parties will be counseled before the start of an ADR session on possible limitations. ADR will not be used for matters that affect important policy matters such as the health, safety, and/or security of employees. Other situations where ADR will not be used include when:

(1) A definitive or authoritative resolution of the matter is required (e.g., a court decision);

(2) The matter involves questions of significant government policy;

(3) The matter significantly affects other parties not part of the same ADR proceeding;

(4) A full public record of the proceeding is required;

(5) There is a need for consistency in decisions and ADR would not likely reach consistent results; or

c. DMA requires continuing jurisdiction over the matter(s) in dispute.

2. How to Initiate ADR

a. An individual should contact the ADR Program Manager within 45 calendar days of the act, incident, or event that gave rise to the dispute or when the individual first became aware of the act, incident, or event.

b. During the initial interview, the ADR Program Manager will explain the purpose, scope, and applicability of DMA's program. The ADR Program Manager will (1) ascertain the issue(s) or matter(s) in dispute, (2) scope of the problem, (3) determine if the issue is appropriate for ADR, and (4) explain the various techniques available for use during ADR. Parties who agree to participate in the ADR program will be required to sign an Agreement to Mediate, Enclosure 4.

3. ADR and the Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) Process

a. For matters involving allegations of discrimination, an individual must contact the DMEIO office within 45 calendar days of the act, incident, or event that gave rise to the allegation or in the case of a personnel action within 45 calendar days of the effective date, in accordance with Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 1614 (Reference (b)).

b. When ADR is offered and the employee elects the ADR process in lieu of traditional EEO counseling, the ADR informal process shall not exceed 90 calendar days from the date of initial contact with the ADR Program Manager or an EEO Counselor. An election to proceed either through traditional EEO counseling or ADR is final and must be made in writing to the ADR Program Manager on the Agreement to Mediate form. If ADR is unsuccessful at the informal stage, the ADR Program Manager will ensure that the employee receives a Notice of Right to File a Formal Complaint and proceed through the traditional EEO complaint process.

4. ADR and the Administrative Grievance System (AGS) Process

a. For matters appropriate under the AGS, an individual may contact the ADR Program Manager or the Human Resources Employee Relations Specialist (ERS) within 15 calendar days of the act, incident, or event that gave rise to the issue. In accordance with DMA Operating Instruction 20-10, "Administrative Grievance System" (Reference (c)).

b. If the employee wishes to participate in ADR, he or she will be referred to the ADR Program Manager who will make all administrative and logistical arrangements for an ADR session.

c. If ADR is unsuccessful and the matter is not excluded under the AGS, the employee may file a formal grievance. A formal grievance must be in writing and filed with the ERS no later than 15 calendar days from the conclusion of the ADR process.

5. ADR and the Inspector General (IG) Process

If an employee contacts the ADR Program Manager concerning waste, fraud, abuse, whistle blowing, abuse of authority, or a substantial and specific danger to the public health and safety, the ADR Program Manager will refer the employee to the IG Office for assistance. Additionally, complaints of reprisal for making a complaint or disclosing information to an IG will be referred to the IG who will determine the appropriate procedures to resolve the dispute.

6. ADR and Procurement-Related Matters

If the ADR Program Manager is contacted concerning a procurement-related dispute, the ADR Program Manager will refer the individual to Director of Acquisition and Procurement for assistance.

7. Confidentiality

Parties to the ADR session must not voluntarily disclose or be required to disclose through discovery or compulsory process any dispute resolution communication or any communication provided in confidence, except if:

- a. All parties to the process, or a non-party who provided the communication, and the mediator, facilitator, or fact-finder consent in writing to the disclosure; or the communication has already been made public.
- b. The dispute resolution communication is required by statute to be made public, and no other person except the mediator, facilitator, or fact-finder is available to make the disclosure.
- c. A court determines that disclosure is necessary to prevent an injustice, establish a violation of law, or prevent serious harm to the public health and safety.
- d. The dispute resolution communication is relevant to determine the existence or meaning of an agreement or award that resulted from the dispute resolution proceeding or to the enforcement of such an agreement or award.
- e. Either party communicates a threat of imminent physical harm.

8. General

- a. If a dispute is resolved during the ADR process, the resolution will be reduced to writing in a Resolution Agreement and signed by both parties. Each party to the Agreement will receive a copy once signed. The ADR Program Manager will maintain the original signed Agreement. The written Agreement will state clearly the terms of the resolution and identify the DMA official(s) responsible for its implementation.
- b. If the dispute is not resolved under the ADR program, the employee will be advised of further rights and avenues of redress, as appropriate.

9. Enforcement

a. Settlement Agreement Enforcement

(1) Agreements reached as the result of a mediation session are binding to the same extent as any settlement agreement is binding on the parties, as are the procedures to enforce such agreements. In EEO complaints, a complainant must contact the Director, DMEQ, within 30 calendar days of an alleged failure by DMA to comply with the terms of the settlement agreement. DMA's DMEQ then has 30 calendar days to issue a decision on whether DMA failed to implement the settlement. The complainant can then appeal DMA's decision on whether or not DMA failed to implement the settlement to the EEOC's Office of Federal Operation (OFO) within 30 calendar days, or if the agency failed to issue a decision, 35 calendar days after the complainant filed his/her allegation of noncompliance with the Director, DMEQ. If the EEOC finds failure, it may order compliance or it may order the complaint be reinstated for further processing from the point processing ceased. For agreements other than EEO cases, the party alleging noncompliance would need to contact the chief mediator, ADR office conducting the mediation, or Chief Human Capital Office (CHCO), depending on the language for notification in the agreement.

(2) If an EEO complainant alleges retaliation after the settlement agreement, he/she must contact an EEO counselor to initiate a new complaint. Generally, the complainant cannot have a settled complaint reinstated, even if the settlement includes a non-retaliation clause. Enforcement of terms of the agreement requires a delicate balance in order to not damage relations that may have been repaired as a result of ADR. Care must be taken to investigate allegations fully. Breaches in any form, whether breach of confidentiality or breach of contractual terms, should be coordinated with the DMEO, CHCO and GC.

b. Breach of Settlement Agreement

(1) Non-EEO Disputes –If a party believes that the other party has breached the settlement agreement, he/she should report the breach to the ADR Program Manager within 30 calendar days of when the party knew or should have known of the alleged breach. The ADR Program Manager will investigate the allegations and, if appropriate, work with agency management to enforce the agreement.

(2) EEO Disputes –If a party believes that the other party has breached a settlement agreement that was reached during the EEO complaint process, the party should follow the procedures for breach of settlement agreements contained in Reference (b). These procedures require a complainant to notify the agency's Director, DMEO, in writing, of the alleged breach within 30 calendar days of when he/she knew or should have known of the breach. If the complainant is not satisfied with the agency's attempt to resolve the matter, he or she may file an appeal with the EEOC's OFO for a determination of whether the agency has complied with the terms of the settlement agreement.
